Welcome

Thank you for your interest in becoming a Devolved Administration Board Member of the Professional Standards Authority (PSA). We are currently recruiting for a Board Member from Wales/Cymru.

The PSA is an independent organisation, overseeing the ten statutory regulators for 1.9 million health and social care professionals, and accrediting voluntary registers of over 120,000 health and care workers.

Our work includes:

- Robust statutory powers – we can refer fitness to practise decisions by the regulators to the High Court if we think they are insufficient to protect the public
- The publication of reports on the performance of the regulators and critical incident reviews of regulatory failures
- Commissioning and publishing research into the effectiveness of regulation
- Working with governments on the reform of professional regulation in health and social care.

We are looking for individuals with highly developed influencing and leadership skills to work in the interests of all members of our diverse society – we do not have preconceptions about where our new Board Member will come from, apart from living and working in Wales/Cymru, so please don't rule yourself out before reading further.

This is a unique and influential role in the high-profile field of health and social care and our new Devolved Administration Board Member will join the PSA at an interesting time with the implementation of regulatory reform. You will be part of a team working with the governments and administrations across the United Kingdom, with the statutory regulators and non-statutory registers we oversee, with representatives of highly diverse patient and professional groups, and with other stakeholders.

The Board and the Chief Executive lead a small, high-calibre organisation with staff who are widely respected in their fields. The PSA's Board Members have a broad range of senior experience, and we are now seeking a new Devolved Administration Board Member for Wales/Cymru.

We look forward to receiving your application.

Caroline Corby (Chair)

Background

The Professional Standards Authority for Health and Social Care (the PSA) promotes the health, safety and wellbeing of patients and the public by raising standards of regulation and registration of people working in health and care. We are an independent body, accountable to the UK Parliament, and work closely with the devolved administrations in Northern Ireland, Scotland and Wales/Cymru.

We oversee the work of ten statutory bodies that regulate health professionals in the UK and social workers in England. We review the regulators' performance, and audit and scrutinise their decisions about whether people on their registers are fit to practise.

We also set standards for organisations holding voluntary registers for people in health and care occupations and accredit those organisations that meet our standards.

To encourage improvement, we share knowledge and good practice, conduct research and introduce new ideas including our concept of right-touch regulation. We monitor policy developments in the UK and internationally and provide advice to governments and others on matters relating to people working in health and care.

We are committed to integrity, transparency, respect, fairness and teamwork.

More information about our work and the approach we take is available at www.professionalstandards.org.uk.

How we work

Our Board sets our strategy and monitors our performance. The Chief Executive leads our work. He and our staff are independent of government.

Our staff (about 40 people) have various skills and roles including legal, governance, conducting reviews and audits, policy, research and operations and finance.

We have three directorates: Regulation and Accreditation (overseeing regulators and Accredited Registers and how well they work), Policy and Communications (developing standards, influencing regulatory policy), Corporate Services (managing how we deliver our services).

How we are funded

Our annual budget is around £5.1 million. We are funded in three ways:

1. The ten regulators we oversee pay a fee to us each year. The Health and Social Care Act 2012 provided for the PSA to be funded in the main by the regulatory bodies.
2. Accredited Registers apply to be accredited and pay us a fee to assess whether they meet our standards.
3. The Department of Health and Social Care and other bodies in the UK and internationally, commission us to provide them with advice or carry out reviews.

Who oversees us

Parliament oversees our work. The Privy Council consults on the budget that we say we need to do our work and sets the fees that the regulators must pay. The Health and Social Care Select Committee can call us to appear and give an account of our work.

Our legal authority

We were set up under the NHS Reform and Health Care Professions Act 2002. Our legislation has been amended since then. The most recent legislation was the Health and Social Care Act (2012), which gave us two new responsibilities relating to our work with Accredited Registers; and our work advising the Privy Council about appointments to the nine regulators' Councils (we do not oversee appointments to the Board of Social work England). We have the authority to:

- Review decisions made by the ten regulators about practitioners' 'fitness to practise'. We have a power to appeal decisions to the High Court (Court of Session in Scotland) if we consider them to be insufficient for the protection of the public.
- Accredit voluntary registers that meet our standards - and suspend accreditation, apply conditions and remove accreditation.

We do not have the power to investigate complaints about the regulators as this part of the legislation has not been put into practice, but we do value hearing from people who are willing to share their experiences with us to help inform our work.

To find out more about how our work contributes to public protection, read examples of our work in these case studies.

Our Vision

Safer care for all through high standards of conduct and competence in health and social care professionals.

Our Mission

To protect patients, service users and the public by improving the regulation and registration of health and social care professionals.

Our Values

Our values describe how we work with colleagues and external stakeholders. We strive to promote, develop and demonstrate these values in everything we do. A positive culture leads to better performance and better outcomes for patients and the public.

Our values are:

- Integrity – we will be open, honest and trust each other
- Transparency – we will be clear about our performance and the reasons for our decisions with all stakeholders
- Respect – we will treat each other, and those we work with outside the organisation, with respect at all times
- Fairness – we will strive to be fair in all our decision-making
- Teamwork – we will work in partnership to deliver better outcomes for patients and the public.

Our approach

The PSA was established in 2003 and recognises the improvements made in regulation and registration since that time. The PSA continues to review and improve its core processes to reflect these improvements and to respond to our operating environment.

We introduced a new accredited registers programme in 2021/22 which is financially sustainable, cost effective, robust and better meets the needs of employers, patients and the public. We have also made changes to our performance review processes to ensure that reviews are more timely, proportionate and effective in bringing about improvements in regulation.

We will focus more on how we can use the unique role of the PSA to promote and support improvements in regulation and registration for the benefit of patients and the wider public. This will include promoting, shaping and supporting regulatory reform, recognising our key role during a period of significant change over the next few years.

Strategic aim 1

To protect the public by delivering highly effective oversight of regulation and registration;

- To deliver our statutory duties, targeting our resources where there is greatest risk to the public
- To support high standards in health and social care regulation and registration through our performance review, section 29 reviews, accredited registers, policy and communications functions
- To review and improve our processes (including legislative changes where necessary) to ensure they are effective and efficient.

Strategic aim 2

To make regulation and registration better and fairer;

- To lead the development of more effective regulation through reviewing our standards, and undertaking other activities including research, policy advice and quality improvement initiatives, such as sharing good practice
- To promote, influence and support regulatory reform
- To promote and monitor equality, diversity and inclusion in our work and in those we oversee.

Strategic aim 3

To promote and support safer care for all;

- To work with others to establish the full range of functions recommended in Safer care for all for Health and Social Care Safety Commissioners in each of the four countries of the UK
- To work with UK governments to develop regulatory strategies to support the workforce strategies
- To work with regulators, Accredited Registers and other stakeholders to: promote positive workplace cultures; resolve any conflicts between business priorities and patient safety, and between safe spaces, accountability and the duty of candour.

Our Board

The PSA's Board comprises seven non-executive members and one executive member. Specifically:

- A Chair appointed by the Privy Council
- Three non-executive members; one appointed by the Scottish Ministers, one appointed by the Welsh Ministers and the third appointed by the Department of Health, Social Services and Public Safety in Northern Ireland
- Three non-executive members appointed by the Privy Council
- One executive member appointed by our Board itself (the Chief Executive)
- An associate Board member appointed for two years.

No non-executive members of our Board may be or ever have been a member of a profession regulated by any of the ten regulators or the Accredited Registers that we oversee so that we are independent of the health and social care and allied professions.

The Board is the PSA's highest decision-making forum, where significant strategic and operational matters are discussed, and consequential decisions taken.

The PSA's Board has corporate responsibility for ensuring that it fulfils its statutory duties and for promoting the efficient and effective use of its resources.

To this end, and in pursuit of its wider corporate responsibilities, the Board:

- Sets the overall strategic direction of the PSA within statute and the policy and resources framework
- Ensures that any statutory or administrative requirements for the use of public funds are complied with; that the PSA operates within the limits of its statutory PSA, and in accordance with any other conditions relating to the use of public funds
- Ensures that the PSA receives and reviews regular financial information concerning the management of the PSA; is informed in a timely manner about any concerns about the activities of the PSA; and provides positive assurance that appropriate action has been taken on such concerns
- Demonstrates high standards of corporate governance at all times, including establishing an audit committee to help the PSA to address the key financial and other risks facing it
- Appoints the Chief Executive to the PSA and, sets performance objectives and remuneration terms linked to these objectives for the Chief Executive, which give due weight to the proper management and use of public monies.

Committees and working groups of the Board

The Board has delegated specific duties to committees which consequently report back to the Board. These are the Audit and Risk Committee, the Scrutiny Committee and the Nominations Committee. All Board Members are expected to serve on at least one committee. All committees are advisory, although in certain circumstances the Board may delegate decisions to them.

Our Board has different skills and backgrounds. They are not health or care professionals because the legislation under which we were set up does not allow anyone who has been a member of a profession that is regulated to sit on our Board.

We welcome members of the public at our Board meetings and always invite questions.

Board Members

Caroline Corby – Chair

Caroline Corby is the Chair of the Professional Standards Authority.

Caroline attended a comprehensive school in north London. She studied for a degree in Mathematics and Statistics at Bristol University and then worked in the City for 13 years, specialising in private equity. During this period, she served as a non-executive director on around 10 private sector boards across a range of industries.

After taking a career break to raise her three daughters, Caroline joined the board of London Probation Trust in 2007 and subsequently became Chair of that organisation. Caroline's switch from the private to the public sector was motivated by a wish to do work with a greater social purpose.

Since 2015, Caroline has undertaken a number of public appointments and she has chaired fitness to practise hearings for several of the statutory health regulators. Today, as well as her role at the PSA, Caroline is Chair of the Parole Board for England and Wales/Cymru, Chair of Peabody Trust, one of the UK's oldest and largest housing associations, and she is a non-executive director of the Security Industry Authority.

Caroline wanted to join the PSA as she is committed to public protection, particularly given the vulnerability of so many patients and service users, and she enjoys teamwork and public service.

Alan Clamp – Chief Executive

Alan Clamp is the Chief Executive Officer (CEO) of the Professional Standards Authority.

Alan has spent all his working life in the public sector and is committed to raising standards in public services. Following a degree in Natural Sciences and a PhD in Biochemistry, Alan initially followed a career in teaching before becoming one of Her Majesty's Inspectors with Ofsted and then working on the regulation of qualifications.

Alan's first Chief Executive role was at the Human Tissue Authority between 2011 and 2015. He then moved to become the CEO of the Security Industry Authority, an independent regulator sponsored by the Home Office. Alan joined the PSA as our Chief Executive in November 2018.

In addition to his role at the PSA, Alan is a non-executive director at the Parole Board for England and Wales/Cymru and the Intellectual Property Regulation Board. He is also a Trustee of the Institute of Regulation.

With over 25 years' experience in regulation, including 13 years as a Chief Executive, Alan is passionate about good regulation and the key role it plays in public protection.

Professor Marcus Longley – Deputy Chair and Chair of the Scrutiny Committee

Marcus was the Chair of the Cwm Taf Morgannwg University Health Board from 2017 to 2021, and before that was Vice Chair of Cardiff and Vale University Health Board from 2013 to 2017.

Marcus has also served as a Board Member for the Welsh Consumer Council, and for Consumer Focus Wales and was until August 2017 Professor of Applied Health Policy and Director of the Welsh Institute for Health and Social Care, University of South Wales. He is now Professor Emeritus. He has been an Expert Advisor to the Bevan Commission, having previously been a Member there, and is a Senior Associate at The Nuffield Trust.

Marcus was educated at the universities of Oxford, Cardiff and Bristol, and worked in the NHS from 1981 to 1995. He was elected a Fellow of the Faculty of Public Health of the Royal Colleges of Physicians in 2008.

Candace Imison – Board Member

Candace has over thirty years' experience in UK healthcare across all parts of the health system, including undertaking health research and developing health policy. She was Director of Policy at the Nuffield Trust and Deputy Director of Policy at The King's Fund where she undertook research and published on a wide range of topics, notably workforce and the configuration of services. She worked for five years at the Department of Health undertaking work on strategy in the Strategy Unit and developing health workforce and configuration policy. Latterly, she has worked for the National Institute of Health and Care Research leading on research dissemination and knowledge mobilisation.

Candace has extensive senior management experience in the NHS, including at board level for healthcare providers, commissioners and regulators. She was director of strategy for a large acute trust, director of commissioning in a health authority, and a non-executive director for Sheffield Teaching Hospitals and Kingston Hospital Foundation Trusts (where she was also Deputy Chair).

Candace holds a Master's degree in Health Policy and Health Economics from Birmingham University and an undergraduate degree in natural sciences from the University of Cambridge.

Ali Jarvis – Board Member

Ali Jarvis is a Board member and was appointed as the devolved member for Scotland in January 2025.

Ali went to a rural comprehensive school before gaining a Modern Languages degree at Bristol University. The first phase of her career was in the private sector where she held senior management positions in marketing, human resources and strategy for large multi-national companies focusing on organisational change management, leadership and diversity.

Keen to focus increasingly on wider public benefit and social inclusion, Ali became the first Director of Stonewall in Scotland in 2000 and then moved to a UK-wide Director role at the Commission for Racial Equality.

In 2008 she became a publicly appointed Board member of the Scottish Funding Council. She followed this with a Board role with NHS Health Scotland and also chaired the Glasgow Regional Colleges Board.

For the last 20 years, alongside her Non-Executive roles, Ali has worked as a freelance consultant and coach specialising in leadership, strategic change management and governance with organisations in the public, private and non-profit sectors. She is also an independent assessor and adviser for the Office of the Ethical Standards Commissioner in Scotland.

Her commitment to public service is founded on principles of inclusion, improvement, ethics and impact.

Geraldine Campbell – Board Member

Geraldine has extensive experience of regulating professionals through holding non-executive roles with the Northern Ireland Social Care Council, The General Osteopathic Council, The General Dental Council and The Pharmaceutical Society of Ireland.

She has also been involved in the quality management of the selection, training and continuing education of doctors-in-training in Northern Ireland through a lay role with The Northern Ireland Medical Dental Training Agency (NIMDTA) before becoming a Board Member of NIMDTA, with responsibility for the employment and oversight of the education and training of doctors and dentists. Geraldine has also been involved in the fitness to practice processes for nurses, midwives and pharmacists. She is passionate about the involvement of patients and service users in regulatory decision-making, particularly those least likely to be heard but most likely to be affected by decisions.

Geraldine is an experienced non-executive board member representing the public interest across a range of public bodies since 2007, having previously been a Chief Executive in the charity sector. Earlier in her career she had roles in patient public involvement, consumer services and complaints management for a Health and Social Care Commissioning body in Northern Ireland.

'I wanted to join the PSA because as a thought leader in the regulation of health and social care professionals, it has massive potential to be a positive voice for improvement and change, leading to safer, better outcomes for patients. The opportunity to contribute to those discussions and influence the decisions that are taken is a great privilege'.

Nick Simkins – Board Member

Nick Simkins is a Board member and Chair of the Audit and Risk Committee.

He is a Chartered Accountant who has spent his career as a Partner at leading accountancy firms in the UK. He retired in 2022 and has since taken on a number of non-executive roles.

He has worked across the public and private sectors specialising in audit, governance and risk management with leading government, education, charity and not-for-profit organisations.

Nick currently serves as a non-executive director for two housing associations, a further education college and is a Council member of Aston University.

Juliet Oliver – Board Member

Juliet Oliver is General Counsel and Executive Director at the Solicitors Regulation Authority.

Juliet specialises in regulatory law and policy. She led the development of the SRA's Standards and Regulations and corporate/governance arrangements. Previously, as a partner at the law firm Fieldfisher, she acted for regulatory bodies across sectors including healthcare and law. At the General Medical Council she advised on the Shipman and Mid Staffordshire public inquiries, and played a leading role in designing its fitness to practise and revalidation procedures.

Juliet is a trustee of the Royal Medical Benevolent Fund. She also has experience sitting as a member of the Professional Standards Committee of the Chartered Institute of Management Accountants, as Chair of the Investigation Committee and Case Examiner at the General Optical Council, on the Audit Committee of the Royal College of General Practitioners and the Law Society's Mental Health and Disability Committee.

Ruth Ajayi – Associate Board Member

Ruth Ajayi is an Associate Board member.

Ruth holds a degree in New Media Journalism with Media Studies and a Masters in Public Relations. She is also certified in PRINCE2 and Agile Project Management.

Following redundancy from City & Guilds, Ruth utilized her skills within the NHS, managing the delivery of NHS 111 Online in the South West and South East, and overseeing GP Online services implementation across England. She served as Integrated Care Senior Advisor for the East of England before leaving due to a long-term health condition. Ruth chaired the Maternity Services Liaison Committee at Whipps Cross Hospital and is currently a Lay Assessor at the Royal College of Physicians and a Lay Examiner at the Royal College of Obstetricians and Gynaecologists.

Committed to patient-centred care, Ruth is involved in several research programmes and chairs the Advisory Appointment Committee at Barts Health NHS Trust. She co-founded the Disability and Wellbeing Network and the Staff Race Equality Network at NHS England (East of England), highlighting her commitment to Diversity, Equity and Inclusion.

Ruth is pleased to join the PSA Board and is dedicated to ensuring that all citizens confidently access safe and protected healthcare services.

Conflicts may relate to any relevant business interests, positions of PSA or other connections with organisations relevant to the business of the PSA.

If you are aware of any potential conflicts prior to your appointment you should raise these during the process of your application. If an issue arises following your appointment you should ensure that you alert the Privy Council to whom you will be accountable for your performance.

If there is anything in your professional history that, if brought into the public domain, may cause embarrassment or disrepute to the organisation, please provide further details in your application form. Failure to disclose such information could result in an appointment being terminated.

Diversity and equality of opportunity

The PSA values and promotes diversity and is committed to equality of opportunity for all. Applications are welcomed regardless of gender, disability, age, religion, ethnic origin, political opinion, sexual orientation or whether or not you have dependants. We are committed to making the recruitment process as accessible as possible.

As a Disability Confident employer, we will guarantee an interview for people with disabilities who meet all the essential criteria and so if you would like to be considered under this scheme then please let us know.

If you have specific requirements at either the application or interview stage, please let us know. Any requirement for reasonable adjustment will be accommodated. Please contact recruitment@professionalstandards.org.uk for further information or if you require any reasonable adjustments at any stage of the process. These appointments will be underpinned by the principles of public appointment based on merit after a fair, open and transparent process.

Principles of Public Life (the Nolan Principles)

The principles of public life apply to anyone who works as a public office-holder. This includes all those who are elected or appointed to public office, nationally and locally, and all people appointed to work in the civil service, local government, the police, courts and probation services, NDPBs, and in the health, education, social and care services. All public office-holders are both servants of the public and stewards of public resources. The principles also have application to all those in other sectors delivering public services.

1. Selflessness

Holders of public office should act solely in terms of the public interest.

2. Integrity

Holders of public office must avoid placing themselves under any obligation to people or organisations that might try inappropriately to influence them in their work. They should not act or take decisions in order to gain financial or other material benefits for themselves, their family, or their friends. They must declare and resolve any interests and relationships.

3. Objectivity

Holders of public office must act and take decisions impartially, fairly and on merit, using the best evidence and without discrimination or bias.

4. Accountability

Holders of public office are accountable to the public for their decisions and actions and must submit themselves to the scrutiny necessary to ensure this.

5. Openness

Holders of public office should act and take decisions in an open and transparent manner. Information should not be withheld from the public unless there are clear and lawful reasons for so doing.

6. Honesty

Holders of public office should be truthful.

7. Leadership

Holders of public office should exhibit these principles in their own behaviour. They should actively promote and robustly support the principles and be willing to challenge poor behaviour wherever it occurs.
